

Innovative on-line programs about liability laws to help you stay OUT of abusive lawsuits!

Most nonprofit organizations are one lawsuit away from bankruptcy – and most are unprepared to deal with legal liability threats.

Costly lawsuits usually happen when nonprofits aren't prepared. The free FFCJ Legal Liability Toolkit

Tutorials increase your awareness to reduce risk, lower liability, and avoid potential lawsuits.

This innovative series of 30- to 45-minute programs provide principle-focused learning, real-time feedback, scoring and printouts on managing legal liabilities – a must for all non-profits in today's lawsuit-happy culture!

FFCJ Tutorials on identifying and managing legal liabilities include:

Recruiting and Hiring Best Practices to Reduce Lawsuit Risks – hiring staff and managing employees creates a host of liability issues.

Employee Layoff Best Practices to Reduce Lawsuit Risks – taking the right steps to ensure legally sound practices.

Performance Termination Best Practices to Reduce Lawsuit Risks – ending employment lawfully and with dignity.

Contract Negotiations and Drafting to Reduce Lawsuit Risks – disagreements over expectations and obligations create liability risks.

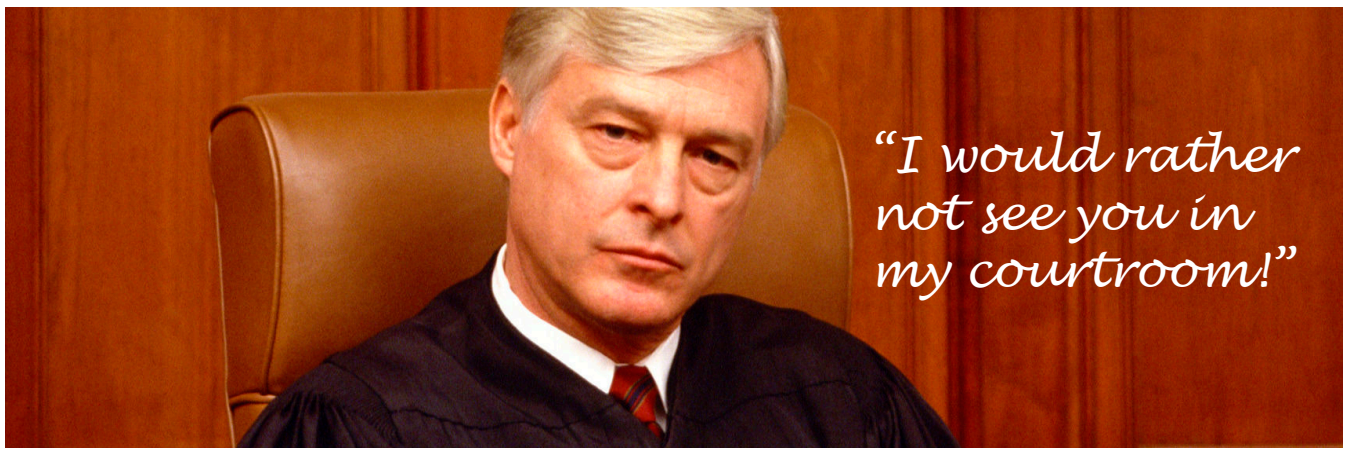

Clear and Effective Writing to Reduce Lawsuit Risks – avoiding unintended risks arising from inappropriate emails and other documents.

What People Are Saying

“The tools in your Legal Learning Center tutorials are the most helpful reminders of how to stay on the right side of the law and know the newest twists and turns in regulations to protect American businesses from making uninformed mistakes and thus breaking the law. Knowledge of the proper protocols in employment law removes the vulnerability of frivolous lawsuits off the backs of business when hiring, communicating, negotiating and terminating. Great Stuff!”

Richard P. Rush, President & CEO
The State Chamber of Oklahoma

“Managing a non-profit law firm and working with small businesses gives us a front row to the devastation that can come from abusive lawsuits. The Legal Liability Toolkits lay out a practical plan for avoiding such lawsuits – should be called, How to Become a Non-Target!”

Shannon L. Goessling, Executive Director
& Chief Legal Counsel
Southeastern Legal Foundation

“Practical programs to help small business protect jobs and stay in business – these FFCJ Toolkits should be ‘required reading’ for all businesses and community organizations.”

Sen. Ronnie Chance, Chairman
Georgia Senate Finance Committee

“We are thrilled to see FFCJ develop these exciting and innovative ways to educate the public about liability laws. The Toolkit programs will certainly help people keep their businesses out of the clutches of the plaintiff bar. We’re delighted to partner with FFCJ and include links on our website.”

Tiger Joyce, President
American Tort Reform Association

“FFCJ is the first to make a nationwide appeal to small business, charitable foundations, civic organizations, volunteer groups and the broader public, while giving them the knowledge resources to reduce their exposure to the risk of abusive lawsuits.”

Bernie Marcus
Co-Founder, The Home Depot

“We want people to be aware of just how unreasonable liability law can be in many states and how severely the playing field is tilted toward the plaintiffs’ bar. We want every American to understand the costs to businesses, non-profits and consumers when a politically well-connected lobby can subvert the law for its own personal gain.”

Steve Hantler, Chairman
Foundation for Fair Civil Justice
